

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A method of educating a child, comprising:

5 identifying a problem behavior exhibited by the child;

 selecting an educational time-out presentation to present to the child;

10 presenting the educational time-out presentation to the child; and confirming the child performs as instructed by the educational time-out presentation.

15 2. The method of claim 1, wherein identifying the problem behavior further includes:

 monitoring the child's behavior; and 20 intervening in the child's behavior whereby the child associates the intervention with the problem behavior.

25 3. The method of claim 1, wherein selecting an educational time-out presentation further includes selecting an educational time-out presentation topic from a plurality of time-out presentation topics presented by a user interface.

30 4. The method of claim 1, wherein the educational time-out presentation includes:

 a calming segment; and an educational segment.

35 5. The method of claim 4, wherein the educational segment includes a multimedia comparison between correct and incorrect choices, the multimedia comparison including visual, auditory, and musical depictions of the choices.

5
6. The method of claim 4, wherein the educational segment includes:

- 10 a scene acknowledging the child's feelings;
- a scene identifying the child's incorrect choices;
- a scene depicting a child in the presentation making an incorrect choice;
- a scene querying the child about the child's choices, the scene contrasting a correct choice from an incorrect choice;
- 15 a scene where the child in the presentation makes a correct choice; and
- a scene praising the child for being a person who
- 20 wants to make a correct choice.

7. The method of claim 6, wherein the scene acknowledging the child's feelings includes a song segment.

25
8. The method of claim 6, wherein the scene querying the child about the child's choices includes a song segment.

9. The method of claim 1, wherein presenting the educational time-out presentation further includes isolating the child from any distractions during the presentation of the educational time-out presentation.